

EVENT DESCRIPTION

Participants at this conference will strengthen their knowledge on clinical, environmental and industrial biofilms. Currently treatments used against this type of infections and the different methods used in their study, including animal models, will also be presented. Finally, they will have a vision of the new approaches in the prevention and eradication of these structures, as well as the economic impact of biofilm-associated infections.

Participants are called to present their works in ORAL SESSIONS providing an opportunity to discuss their research with the most senior staff.

Workshop is organised by the leader of NoMorFilm project, ISGlobal (Instituto de Salud Global de Barcelona, Spain).
